INSTRUCTIONS: For FCA module use

We have created an use to use, easy to modify learning module for your use. This document will give you basic instructions for the use of this module. Please read the instructions below and then utilize the content that makes sense to you and your class.

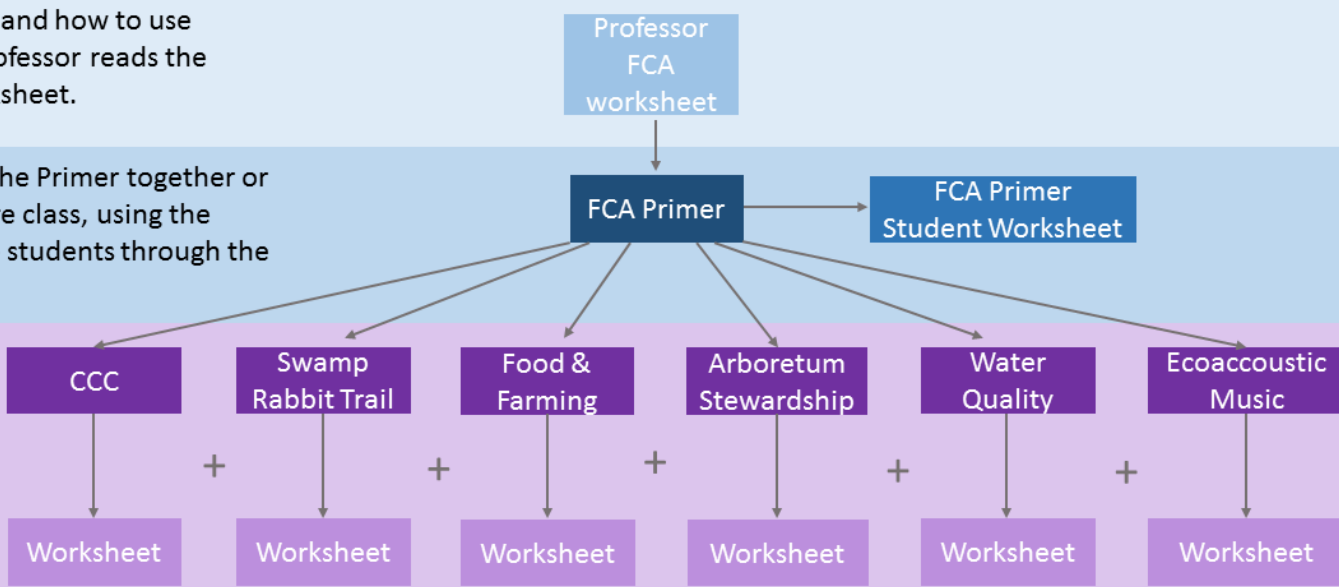

The diagram below takes you step by step through the materials included in this learning module.

FCA Learning Module Overview

To learn about FCA and how to use the module, the Professor reads the Professor FCA worksheet.

The class watches the Primer together or as homework before class, using the worksheet to guide students through the new information.

The class watches each case study and completes the associated worksheet individually or as a group.

Additional materials and activities can be used for further research.

Additional materials

As you can see, we have provided a video primer that will give your students the basics of FCA. The module also contains a worksheet (Primer Worksheet.pdf) for them to use while they watch the primer to ensure their attention and improve information retention.

After your students have watched the Primer, you can assign any number of case studies you would like for them to explore the principles of FCA on their own. Each case study has a customized Worksheet with additional information and web links to further their exploration and enrich their learning.

Finally, we have provided additional resources to help you go into more depth with your class. These resources include a case study worksheet designed to assist your students in considering or create case studies in your local area and on your campus.
