A Good Deal Of Success. -

The Nebraska bill, when it came up for consideration in the Senate, was considered by the majority of the Republican party as a very important measure. It was expected that it would be passed without much difficulty, and it was hoped that it would settle the question of the admission of the new territory.

The bill was introduced by Senator Douglas, and it was received with great enthusiasm by the Republican party. The President, in his message, had expressed his approval of the bill, and it was generally believed that it would be passed without much difficulty.

The bill was opposed by a few Radical Republicans, who objected to its terms, but the majority of the party were in favor of it, and it was finally passed by a large majority.

The bill was signed by the President, and it was hoped that it would settle the question of the admission of the new territory. It was expected that it would be received by the people of Nebraska with enthusiasm, and that it would be a great improvement to the territory.
