Brown, the leader of the Harper's Ferry riot, lectured on Kansas, at Hartford, Conn., in May, 1857. The Abolitionists got up a subscription to help him, and the Black Republican party vouched for him thus:

Brown is just the man we need in Kansas, and if every man who loves freedom and can afford to do so would put his money where his mouth is, we might put an end to the dead hand that is crushing Kansas.

Brown got money somewhere, and with the money he got arms and ammunition for a re-election in the State, and for that he is to be congratulated. In that his "money's worth!"

John E. Cook, the chief aid of Brown in his enterprise, was also a lecturer at Hartford on Kansas affairs the year previous. He was a Connecticut lawyer, who emigrated to Kansas. He went back to Connecticut to raise a company of men to fight in Kansas. He appeared in person, to have his say as well as Brown. He said in his lecture that when he arrived in Kansas he passed himself off as "an invisible man," and that the confidence of the Southern men was herded from them, attended their secret meetings, and urged them to vote Robinson and Edger, and told them what he had learned. The Connecticut meeting voted "thanks" to Mr. Cook.

He has done honor to the training for which they are all trained, and he was received in Virginia in the Improved character of a leader and a traitor, ingratiated upon that

The New Opera House—We will call attention to the opening of the Opera House, Mr. Ruffin, in another section, that the office of the New Opera House will open tomorrow (November 21) from 7 A.M. to 3 P.M., and that the opera will begin at the same hour. The opera is situated on the second floor.

Mr. Ruffin informs us that the day of opening the season, we have already announced, the 17th inst., will find this beautiful lyceum in complete readiness for the reception of the noble-loving public.

Jefferson College—To-day the classes at this institution, located in the parish of St. James, about sixty miles above here, are open under a new and worthy board of trustees, under the presidency of Dr. D. Huger, a gentleman of ability and morality, well known here, and worthy of all confidence. He has organized an excellent faculty, and the college commences with the brightest prospects.

Wood, Eddy & Co., Lander's—In another section of our paper will be found an advertisement of the Georgia Lottery, conducted under a State Commissioner, at Augusta, Ga. The name of the man is C. H. Howard, who will be addressed as noted in the advertisement.

Death—We call attention to the card of Dr. Charles E. Kelly, dentist No. 152 Canal street, between Curran and Ha-
