The Day's Pleasure.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.

The suppression of the Huron's riots, and the repulse of the Huron party of the French in the Detroit country, which has been accomplished by the valiant exploits of the United States' forces under the command of General Clinton, is an event of great importance to the interests of the country. The promotion of this event is a matter of national pride, and is an evidence of the determination of the American people to maintain their independence and their rights.
J. S. T. CHAPMAN

FRENCH EMBASSY

CLEVELAND STREET, CHATSWORTH, LONDON, E.C.

FIRE NOTICE.—Mrs. J. A. D. Clark on the night of the transaction of a cottage fire at enquiries, axolotls, spiderlings, all the latest at low prices.

HARBOUR AT LOW WATER

KING STREET, LONDON, E.C.

ALWAYS OPEN

BUSINESS NOTICE.—

ROYAL AIR CREDIT, 46, KING STREET, LONDON, E.C.

The Board of Trade and the Ministry of Labour have issued a circular on the subject of the times of day and night on which they are open. The circular states that it is undesirable for businesses to open too early in the morning or too late in the evening, and that the best hours for business are those when there is least competition. The circular also states that it is desirable for businesses to be closed on Sundays, and that they should not open on public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

This is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.

The circular is a reminder to businesses that they should be considerate of their customers and not open too early in the morning or too late in the evening. It is also a reminder that businesses should not open on Sundays or public holidays.
such a great mistake of policy, even if he could persuade himself that he has the right to make the demand which is asked for; and we are inclined to think, if the case is presented to him, requiring his examination and decision, he will decide it to be a right too questionable, to say the least of it, to be asserted with the intent of making it an issue between States.

Books.—The publishers, Sheldon & Co., New York, have obliged us with the following new works, small volumes, well printed and bound:

“Emile, the Peacemaker,” by Mrs. Thos. Geldart; “Sunday Morning Thoughts,” or great truths in plain words; and “Sunday Evening Thoughts,” by the same writer.

These works can be had at the Presbyterian Repository, 126 Camp street.

Messrs. Bloomfield & Steel, booksellers, 60 Camp street, have obliged us, from the publishers, Dick & Fitzgerald, New York, with two neatly got up volumes that will be very acceptable to families: The “Corner Cupboard,” a miscellany of useful knowledge, by the author of “Inquire Within,” and “The Reason Why,” illustrated with a thousand engravings and containing a large amount of varied, curious and useful information; also “Parlor Theatricals,” or winter evening entertainments, containing directions to fit up a parlor theatre, with engravings and diagrams, and a number of acting proverbs, dramatic charades and pantomimes, musical burlesques, tableaux vivants, &c.

The Buckleys at the Amphitheatre.—This evening, Mr. Swaine Buckley takes his benefit. It being the last night but three of the engagement of the Buckleys, it is expected that they will give a fair trial. The company is well up, and the house is expected to be crowded.