that resistance. He came to preach sedition and robbery, as the proper instruments for working out his idea of negro rights. The pursuit of these objects became so intensified in his thoughts that it got to be the one idea which dominated exclusively over all others. and made a fierce and bloody fanatic of him who was not naturally cruel by temperament.

We have said that it is not surprising that the effect of recent events should have unwittingly a man of this cast, with a brain so fevered and a judgment so shattered as his must have been. To any man not totally depraved and utterly insensible, the result of the outbreak at Harper's Ferry must have been a dreadful shock. That he had a guilty knowledge of the plans of which this was one, and of the purpose of invasion, in some form, if not specifically that of Brown, is very evident.
It is in conformity with opinions publicly ex pressed, which cannot be withdrawn. It is quite as likely that he gave money directly for this particular object. He has given large sums before for objects of the same essential character; and this is but the practical em bodiment of the theories he has preached and labored for.

If he have any sensibility left—if he be not entirely without nerves and heart, a mere bold, bad ruffian—he must shrink with horror and alarm at the consequences of the acts which he has been encouraging so recklessly —the crime to which he has been inciting others, and for which they are to pay the forfeit of their lives. If there were no re morse for the train of unspeakable calamities which the success of their attempt would bring upon hundreds of innocent families, there must, at least, be compunction, sorrow, and regret, for the deluded conspirators who rushed into this foolish enterprise under the incitement of such doctrines as Gerrit Smith has preached, and in the expectation of succor from such men as he is, and as he prepares for such work. He cannot but feel that he is morally guilty of their blood—their tempter into the crime which has led them to shame ful death.

Perhaps the sense of this awful responsi bility may have come with sudden awaken ing effect upon the conscience, and startled it into a knowledge of the enormity of the crimes to which it had been dragged, and the fevered brain gave way before the shock.
Perhaps the fear of consequences, the ex citement of a threatened arrest, terror and apprehension for himself, may have helped to overthrow reason, and to give a relief from present terror, and an asylum from punishment in the unconsciousness of mad ness. None of these are improbable effects of the Harper's Ferry events on a man of Gerrit Smith's temperament, history, frail ties and fanaticisms; and by succumbing to the powers of that terrible condition, he will have proven himself, in some respects, a better man than those who, guilty as he of the great conspiracy against humanity and justice, can look calmly on the frightful disasters they are inciting, and the bloody catastrophe, and go about remorselessly to prepare new schemes and entice new victims by canonizing the foiled conspirators as heroes and martyrs.

 Mrs. Mary H. Welling died recently, near Trenton, N. J., aged 99 years. The beauty of her character, the vigor of her mind, the uninterrupted enjoyment of health and unimpaired possession of her mental fac ulties during so long a life, and her many memories of the Revolutionary era, attached more than local interest to her decease.
