THE DRED SCOTT DECISION.—We give this morning, on our first page, the opinion of Judge Taney, and an abstract of the opinions of Judges Catron and Nelson in the Missouri slave case of Dred Scott, by which the United States Supreme Court decides the unconstitutionality of the Missouri compromise act, and rules that a colored man cannot be a citizen of the United States.—These opinions will be read with interest, and therefore, in view of the importance of the questions decided and thus set at rest, we willingly give up so much space to their insertion. The opinion of Judges McLean and Curtis, taking a view which is directly the opposite of these opinions, we have not yet seen.
